We all remember Papa with fond respectful memories.

He was truly our guiding star and anchor, always!

I still remember the frank suggestions he would pass to us all at family gatherings, unbiased, direct, and no beating around the bush.

I was mostly given a special privilege in his thoughtful planned care. During our long association, he was the one who always was able to provide care and help solving our created issues, we just exploited being favorites.

His tender, caring and visionary approach towards little ones and youngsters was another dimension of his persona. All grandchildren always adore memories and miss him.

He was truly talented in his profession and deep religious beliefs. Widely travelled across India, including background from academic days at Allahabad University, helped him to excel in public dealings at difficult Lutyen's Delhi.

All typical journalistic flavors were present: wide ranging deep subject knowledge, elegance in public dealing, and fearless in expression of his analysis.

Respected and loved by all around him, his presence mostly had a special 'Aura '@ Authority.

We all miss him,

Dileep